PALESTINE REFUGEE PROBLEM:

Settlement of Palestine Refugees: The Role of the American University of Beirut.

This paper was prepared by the regional specialist for the Middle East of the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations of the United States Department of Agriculture. It outlines the services which the university could perform under a settlement program for the refugees by enlisting the support of its alumni; placing its village welfare service organization at the disposal of the program; functioning as a refugee training center in numerous fields; engaging in basic research in behalf of the program. The foregoing services would necessitate limited financial aid to the university. If a major long-range program of development were undertaken, the university could be assisted in developing an agricultural college, a school of industrial chemistry, and similar studies of benefit to the Near East as a whole.
